Unit 1 Test*Reading

1 Read about dreams. Are the sentences true or false? Correct the false sentences. (10 marks, true/false = 1 mark; correction = 1 mark)

Do you remember your first house? How about your first day at school and the people in your first class? Most people remember some things about their childhood but certainly not everything! It was a long time ago! But our brains remember – when we're asleep.

We dream about a lot of different things. Sometimes we know why we dream about these things and sometimes we have no idea. Experts say that we often dream about places, people and things that used to be important to us. In the daytime we can't remember them but at night we can. Kerry, a teenager from Scotland, says, 'I often dream about an old house with a lot of dark rooms and a big garden with a river at the bottom. I don't remember this house at all. But my mum says it's my grandmother's house. I used to visit her a lot when I was very young. But she died when I was three!' Scary!
