Living with crocs

This crocodile was captured in Sri Lanka. Its weight is 900 kilos. It had attacked a man while he was working the land. Crocodiles are heavy and slow on land, but are incredibly fast in water. They live in lakes, rivers and marshes. Crocs are excellent swimmers. They can reach speeds of about 40 kilometres per hour. They watch their prey for a few days and wait before they attack. Don't panic! Not all crocodiles are ferocious. But if you ever swim with a croc, remember it's a carnivore!
