A slippery marathon

Some people love skiing. Others love running marathons. Here's the perfect competition for those who love both.

More than 11,000 skiers participated in the 42.2 km race on March 11, 2012. They skied over a frozen lake in St Moritz, Switzerland. This beautiful competition is very long and exhausting.

Spring is here, but the snow has not melted everywhere. People can still ski in some resorts and enjoy the last weeks of their winter hobby!
